Final Communiqué of the 63rd Ordinary Session of the African Commission on Human and Peoples’ Rights

Banjul, The Gambia

24 October to 13 November 2018

2. The Commission celebrated the 70th anniversary of the adoption of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR) on this occasion.

3. The following Members of the Commission participated in the Session:
   - Honourable Commissioner Soyata Maiga, Chairperson;
   - Honourable Commissioner Lawrence Murugu Mute, Vice-Chairperson;
   - Honourable Commissioner Yeung Kam John Yeung Sik;
   - Honourable Commissioner Kayitesi Zainabo Sylvie;
   - Honourable Commissioner Lucy Asuagbor;
   - Honourable Commissioner Maya Sahli-Fadel;
   - Honourable Commissioner Jamesina Essie L. King;
   - Honourable Commissioner Solomon Ayele Dersso;
   - Honourable Commissioner Hatem Essaiem;
   - Honourable Commissioner Maria Teresa Manuela; and
   - Honourable Commissioner Remy Ngoy Lumbu.

4. The opening ceremony was graced by the presence of H. E. Mr Ousainou Darboe, Vice President of the Republic of The Gambia, who declared the 63rd Ordinary Session open.

5. Mrs. Hannah Forster, speaking on behalf of the participants of the NGO Forum, highlighted some of the activities carried out during the Forum, including the 37th African Human Rights Book Fair from 20 to 22 October 2018, celebration of African Human Rights Day on 21 October 2018, and commemoration of the 70th anniversary of the UDHR as well as the 15th anniversary of the Protocol to the African Charter on Human and Peoples’ Rights on the Rights of Women in Africa (the Maputo Protocol). She also indicated that the Forum held discussions on preventing corruption within the framework of the African Union (AU) theme for 2018 “winning the fight against corruption”.

6. Mr Bongani Majola, speaking on behalf of the Network of African National Human Rights Institutions (NANHRI), commended the work of the Commission in continuing to uphold a human rights culture in Africa. He cited armed conflict, terrorism, corruption, migration and human trafficking as challenges which hinder the realisation of human rights targets. Mr Majola mentioned some of the challenges faced by African National Human Rights Institutions (NHRIs) in the independent exercise of their mandates, including budget cuts, irregular appointment and removal of NHRI members, verbal attack on NHRI members, denial of access to state-owned media coverage, denying immunity to NHRI leadership, and delaying consideration of NHRI findings in parliament. He underscored the importance of strong and independent NHRIs as they are one of the few last forms of defense against unchecked state power. He appealed to the AU and Member States to promote and protect the independence of the Commission as the success of NHRIs depends on the work and leadership provided by the Commission.

7. Speaking on behalf of AU Member States, His Excellency Ambassador Wael Attiya, Director of the Human Rights Department in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Arab Republic of Egypt, recalled the decision of AU Member States to establish the Commission in order to monitor implementation of the African Charter on Human and Peoples’ Rights (the African Charter), and provide technical assistance to Member States in the realisation of human rights. He stressed the need to take stock of past achievements and rekindle cooperation between the Commission and AU Policy Organs. In this regard, he recalled a retreat that was held in June 2018, in Nairobi, Kenya, to foster regular consultation between the AU Permanent Representatives Committee (PRC) and the Commission. H. E. Ambassador Attiya indicated that it is essential to continue this collaborative effort to enhance the efficiency of the Commission and to enable it assist Member States in fulfilling their human rights obligations. He concluded by stating that Egypt will continue to support the Commission, and announced that it will host the 64th Ordinary Session of the Commission.

8. In his statement, Mr Dominique Delpuech, speaking on behalf of Organisation internationale de la Francophonie (OIF), congratulated The Gambia on joining OIF in October 2018. He stated that OIF promotes peace, democracy and human rights in accordance with the Bamako Declaration of 3 November 2000 which aims to consolidate the rule of law, human rights and democratic culture. He added that the Declaration affirms the need to intensify cooperation between OIF and international and regional organisations. He indicated that it is within this framework that the OIF and the Commission recently signed a Memorandum of Understanding and agreed on a Roadmap. Mr Delpuech welcomed the celebration of the 70th anniversary of the UDHR, and stated that while progress has been made in the implementation of the UDHR, a lot remains to be done. He expressed OIF’s concern regarding challenges to the principles of universality and indivisibility of human rights, under the guise of the fight against terrorism and migration.

9. Mr Mahamane Cisse-Gouro, speaking on behalf of Ms Michelle Bachelet, the UN High Commissioner for Human Rights, remarked on the AU theme for 2018 “winning the fight against corruption” stating that the UN, like the AU is also concerned about issues of corruption. He recalled the 2012 Declaration of the High-level Meeting of the General Assembly on the Rule of Law which alludes to the negative impact of corruption and stresses the importance of the rule of law in addressing and preventing corruption. Mr Cisse-Gouro noted that corruption can take many forms and can have individual and collective impacts on the enjoyment of human rights. He expressed his hope that the Addis Ababa Roadmap Agreement will be extended to jointly tackle corruption. He reiterated the Commission's motto “human rights: our collective responsibility” and expressed in that regard the support of the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) to the work of the Commission and the AU.

10. Honourable Justice Tujilane Chizumila, speaking on behalf of Justice Sylvian Oré, President of the African Court on Human and Peoples’ Rights (the Court), noted that, after three decades of operation, the Commission remains critical to the achievement of the major objectives of the AU. She recalled the decision of the AU and its Member States to establish the Court in order to complement and strengthen the continued and independent operation of the Commission. She added that the Court acknowledged the functional independence of the Commission in the case of Femi Faiyana v. the Commission. Honourable Justice Chizumila shared the concerns of the Court regarding the recent misunderstandings on how human rights institutions and organs set up by the AU should discharge their mandates. She stated that the trend is not in line with the commitments and values of the AU and its Member States enunciated under the AU Constitutive Act and the African Charter on Democracy, Elections and Governance, particularly the rule of law and independence of adjudicatory bodies. She concluded by stating that Africa is a continent of solidarity which is why the AU created the Court but retained the Commission to embed a culture of human rights and justice for all.

11. In her opening statement, the Chairperson of the Commission, Honourable Commissioner Soyata Maiga, welcomed participants to the 63rd Ordinary Session of the Commission and expressed her gratitude to the Government of The Gambia for facilitating the Session. She noted that this year human rights are at the forefront, as the entire world commemorates 70 years of the UDHR, an instrument which is the “first international articulation of the rights and freedoms of all members of the human family.”

12. The Chairperson proceeded to share some concerns regarding the human rights situation in the continent, such as the security situation in the Sahel region and its impact on the rights of populations; the migration crisis in Africa; the political turmoil in Togo and post-electoral protests in Mali and Cote d’Ivoire; the situation in English-speaking Cameroon; the political crisis in the DRC particularly attacks on civilians in Béni; the political crisis in Burundi and the suspension of the activities of all foreign NGOs; the arbitrary arrest and detention of human rights defenders in several African countries; restrictions on freedom of expression and assembly in Cameroon, Gabon, Egypt, DRC and Sudan. She also noted with concern the adverse impact of corruption on human rights, particularly with regards to social and economic rights.

13. The Chairperson also shared some positive developments in the continent, including the ratification by The Gambia of the Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, aiming at the abolition of the death penalty (Second Optional Protocol to the ICCPR) and the establishment of the Truth, Reconciliation and Reparations Commission; the steps taken by the Federal Democratic Republic of Ethiopia to promote peace-building, democratic change and human rights and the recent establishment of a gender-balanced Cabinet; the reconciliation between Eritrea and Ethiopia and the subsequent opening of borders; the amnesty granted by Ivorian authorities to about 800 individuals; and the political will expressed by the President of Cote d’Ivoire to implement a decision of the African Court.

14. The Chairperson remarked on the Executive Council decision of June 2018, reiterating the Commission’s firm commitment to the universality of human rights and its commitment to defend the human rights of all persons in accordance with the principles enshrined in the African Charter. She concluded by calling on all stakeholders, including policy makers to play their role in building democracy, ensuring the rule of law and promoting and protecting human rights in Africa.

15. Mr Calixte Mbali, speaking on behalf of Mrs Minata Samate Cessouma, Commissioner for Political Affairs, noted that the AU human rights system has undergone transformation, with the recent adoption of the Protocol to the African Charter on Human and Peoples’ Rights on the Rights of Older Persons and the Protocol to the African Charter on Human and People’s Rights on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities in Africa. Mr Mbali recalled the AU’s decision to declare 2019 as the “Year of Refugees, Returnees and Internally Displaced Persons in Africa: Towards Durable Solutions to Forced Displacement”. He emphasized the need to work collectively in the promotion and protection of human rights in Africa, and underscored the AU’s commitment to the promotion and protection of human rights as elaborated in Agenda 2063. He stated that the AU institutional reform process aims to strengthen the AU human rights institutions, not to weaken them. He called on all stakeholders, including AU Member States, civil society and other actors to engage constructively to realise the aspirations in Agenda 2063.

16. H. E. Mr Ousainou Darboe, Vice President of the Republic of The Gambia, welcomed participants to the 63rd Ordinary Session of the Commission. He indicated that the Government of The Gambia is honoured to host the sessions of the Commission, particularly the 63rd Ordinary Session which coincides with the 70th anniversary of the UDHR. He noted that African states have taken great strides following the adoption of the UDHR, including the adoption of the African Charter, although more needs to be done to fully realise the values enshrined in the African Charter.

17. The Vice President proceeded to share some positive developments in the human rights situation in The Gambia following the last Ordinary Session held in The Gambia in October 2017, including the ratification by The Gambia of the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment; the International Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearance; the Second Optional Protocol to the ICCPR; the African Charter on Democracy, Elections and Governance; and the Protocol to the African Charter on Human and Peoples’ Rights on the establishment of an African Court on Human and Peoples’ Rights (the Court Protocol). He further stated that The Gambia is in the process of making a Declaration pursuant to Article 34 (6) of the Court Protocol to allow individuals and NGOs to have direct access to the Court. Regarding ratification of the Second Optional Protocol to the ICCPR, he indicated that The Gambia has adopted a moratorium on the application of the death penalty as a first step towards abolition.

18. The Vice President highlighted other areas of progress including improved freedom of expression; the dramatic decline in arbitrary arrests and detention; increased public engagement and participation; commencement of a process to review repressive laws and establishment of Media Law Review Committee; steps taken to reform various governance areas; establishment of a Constitutional Review Commission; establishment of a Truth, Reconciliation and Reparations Commission; steps taken to establish a National Human Rights Commission; the drafting of an anti-corruption bill; improved prison conditions and review of the Prison Act to ensure compliance with international standards; development of various national policies such as the National Development Plan 2018 – 2021; and submission by The Gambia of its combined periodic report to the Commission covering a period of 24 years.
